DESCRIPTION

Walls:	Brick	Roof:	Corrugated Iron
Condition:	Good	Integrity:
Original fabric:
Modifications:

This large house is of brick construction with a hipped corrugated iron roof which extends broken back to cover verandahs to three sides. The brickwork is tuckpointed and features horizontal rendered banding at sill and half-wall height. The verandah, which is supported on turned timber posts mounted on a masonry balustrade, features a decorative timber frieze. The main entrance to the house is enhanced by a small gablet with decorative finial and frieze. The roof is punctuated by two corbelled brick chimneys. There is a brick extension to the rear. Windows are generally timber framed and double hung. To the front of the house is a garden surrounded by a low painted concrete block wall.

HISTORY

Construction Date:	1910	Source:
Architect:	Not available
Builder:	Not available

Joseph Jones of Belay (Place No. 120) married Nora Silcock in 1907. Redcliffe was built for the couple c1910. The imposing bungalow was described as containing, "seven rooms and is fitted up with all modern conveniences, a broad verandah considerably enhancing its appearance." Redcliffe was later owned by the couple's two daughters, Mercy and Dolly Jones. The house was then occupied by Cecil McCagh who managed the property. Redcliffe was later purchased by Stuart

Turner and then by Evan Hamersley.
